ANNOTATIONS

N.A. Khandoga. Commentary on the Apocalypse by St. Victorinus of Poetovio
The article contains information on the Apocalypse by St. Apostle John the Theologian, as well as “Commentary on the Apocalypse” by St. Victorinus of Poetovio. Following the author of the Apocalypse the exegete of Poetovio pays special attention to three kinds of the Judgment. St. Victorinus was the first to state ‘repetition theory’, according to which in the Apocalypse the same events are considered in the iterative sequence of seven seals, seven trumpets and seven chalices. “Commentary on the Apocalypse” by St. Victorinus of Poetovio gives the solution to the social and economic problems raised in the Apocalypse by St. John the Theologian. The article precedes the publication of the work’s partial translation from Latin into Russian.

Nikolay A. Khandoga is a Candidate of Theology, Vice-Rector for Theological Researches and Lecturer at Pererva Orthodox Theological Seminary.

St. Victorinus of Poetovio. Commentary on the Apocalypse (Commentarii in Apocalypsin)
The “Commentary on the Apocalypse” is the earliest full commentary of St. John the Theologian’s Revelation, which was written by St. Victorinus of Poetovio after 260 in connection with the events that had shaken the Roman Empire: the defeat, captivity and disgraceful death of Emperor Valerianus (253–260). Here the exegete of Poetovio reveals the theme of everlasting struggle between Christ and antichrist. The work culminates in God’s Judgment of the wicked, after which they will not have time for repentance. The Russian translation of six chapters of the “Commentary on the Apocalypse” from Latin made by N.A. Khandoga has been published for the first time.

Sebastian P. Brock. Saint Ephrem — Singer of the Word of God
The article of the leading specialist in Syrian Studies considers some interesting biographical information about St. Ephrem the Syrian, as well as his methodology in describing the mysterious God manifested in the Revelation. St. Ephrem’s method, which he applies to interpreting the Holy Scripture in order to extract from it spiritual and mysterious meaning, is investigated. The article analyzes some fragments of the Holy Father’s own poetic work, which serve as peculiar interpretation of the sacred history events. The extracts have been translated from Syriac by Sebastian P. Brock.
